

GUARD WITNESSES IN CHICAGO MAIL ROBBERY

KELLY POINTED OUT AS MAN WHO RECEIVED MONEY

Government Is Presenting Case Against Southern Bandit

Chicago City, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Hundreds of women, most of them young, stormed the federal tower courtroom today where George (Machine Gun) Kelly and Kathryn, his wife, are on trial for what prosecutors describe as leading roles in the $200,000 kidnaping of Charles P. Urschel.

A perspiring squad of uniformed policemen tried to keep the corridors cleared. The court room was packed and many who sought admittance were turned away.

There was a delay in opening the second day of the trial while Judge Edgar S. Vaughn went to a hospital where an emergency operation was performed upon his son, Edgar S. Vaughn, Jr., University of Oklahoma student, for a stomach disorder. Young Vaughn's condition was said not to be dangerous.

Is Identified

Judge Vaughn arrived at court shortly after 10 o'clock and the prosecution's first testimony was the reading of the ransom notes that threatened Urschel with death unless $200,000 was paid to his kidnapers. Then E. E. Kirkpatrick, the millionaire oil man's Tulsa manager, told his story of paying the fortune in ransom on a Kansas City boulevard. Asked to whom the ransom money was paid Kirkpatrick raised his hand and pointed directly at Kelly, who shrank in his chair, his eyes staring straight at the witness.

"Make it clear who you mean, what color hair has he?" District Attorney Herbert K. Hyde persisted.

"It's strawberry roan color, I'd say," replied Kirkpatrick and the crowd tilted. Kelly's hair is dyed.

To Separate Women

It was announced that federal officials have decided definitely that if Kathryn Kelly is convicted, she will not be housed in the same federal prison with her mother, Mrs. R. G. Shannon.

Those two were together quite a while when they were free and it apparently did neither any good," said Joseph B. Keenan, Assistant United States Attorney General.

Mrs. Shannon, sentenced to life imprisonment, still is held in the county jail here.

R. G. Shannon, Kathryn's stepfather, likewise under a life sentence, also is still in the county jail here. He has not made $10,000 bond which Judge Vaughn specified should be posted before the 34-year-old Paradise, Texas, farmer might go free for 60 days to wind up his business affairs.

Wife Purchased Gun

The modish Kathryn was named as the purchaser of a machine gun used in kidnaping Urschel.

J. Klar, firearms dealer of Fort Worth, Tex., testified that he sold Kathryn a machine gun for $250 bearing the same serial number as the weapon later found beside the sleeping Harvey Bailey on the Paradise, Tex., "kidnap farm" where the victim was hidden. Bailey is serving a life term on conviction of the kidnaping.

"Didn't you sell Kelly three machine guns before this time?" asked Kathryn's attorney, John Roberts after Klar had testified that the woman came into his shop alone last Feb. 20 and selected the weapon.

His First Purchase

"No sir," Kelly had been in the store before but never had bought anything," Klar replied.

He denied that when Kathryn entered the store that day he had said to her: "I've got that machine gun that Kelly wanted."

The machine gun, prosecutors allege, was the one which was pointed at Urschel when he was hustled from his home the night of July 22.

Girls Spirited Away

After testimony by Ruth Shannon, 13-year-old daughter of the convicted R. G. Shannon, who was charged with the Urschel case, the Texas farm Urschel was held captive, Keenan announced there was no need to call Pauline Frye, 15-year-old daughter of Kathryn Kelly to testify against her mother.

"This little girl, Ruth, told substantially what Pauline would have said," Keenan explained.

Ruth testified that on the Sunday Urschel was brought to the Shannon farm, she was taken with Pauline and Mrs. Oleta Shannon to Fort Worth.

"Who came and got you?" asked District Attorney Hyde.

"Kathryn," responded the child, in a whisper.

Hyde was attempting to show that the girls were hurried out of the way by Kathryn so they would not learn of the presence of the kidnaped Urschel.

Both Shannon and his wife have been given life sentences for their part in the conspiracy. Shannon's son, Armon, husband of Oleta, drew a 10-year suspended sentence.

In the Annamite language of southern Asia, the term "Ma" has six different meanings: young rice, horse, ghost, but, tomb and mama; all of these depend on the inflection used.

MOORE IS SENT TO STATE FARM FOR HALF YEAR

Admonished by Judge Sheehan In Circuit Court This Morn

Lloyd "Bud" Moore, aged 20 of this city, was sentenced to serve six months at the state work farm at Vandalia and pay a fine of $100 and costs, when arraigned before Judge Frank Sheehan in the circuit court shortly before noon today.

Moore, who was found guilty of driving an automobile without the consent of the owner last week, appeared with his counsel, Attorney Mark C. Keller this morning, and told the court before sentence was passed that he was sorry for this action and had reformed.

State's Attorney Edward Jones asked that the maximum penalty be invoked and introduced the county court record together with sentences in cases against Moore last year. In pronouncing sentence Judge Sheehan said:

"It is a very difficult matter for a State's Attorney to deal with violators of your age. I know from my own experience as State's Attorney. You have narrowly escaped a penitentiary sentence of from one to 20 years. You have also been given every opportunity to go straight, should you so have desired, and I do not feel that the court is justified in pronouncing a light sentence in your case. I sincerely hope, however, that when your sentence is completed, that you will not be back knocking at the door of the Lee county jail or of the state work farm."

With this admonition, Judge Sheehan pronounced sentence and Moore was taken to the county jail by Chief Deputy Ward Miller.

Mrs. Martha LaMar of South Dixon township, was granted a decree of divorce from Harley P. LaMar by Judge Sheehan this morning, desertion being charged.

"SHOW DOWN" ON BAND MATTERS MAYOR'S ORDER

City Council Will Go To Bottom Of Current Disputes

A "show down" on matters pertaining to the Dixon Civic band and difference with the local musicians' union, is to be held at the meeting of the city council next Monday evening, as a result of an order from Mayor G. C. Dixon at the close of a long session of the council last evening. Members of the band commission and officers of the Dixon musicians' local will be asked to attend the meeting.

"We have a good band in Dixon and it is my belief that the band commission has worked diligently and faithfully to provide the city with such an organization in spite of the fact that they have met with strong opposition since the start two years ago," the Mayor stated.

"Indignant and emphatic complaints have come to my attention during the past two weeks from parents that members of a boys' band were prevented from playing at the high school football games. It has come to my attention that a special dispensation was necessary to be secured from New York City or some other place, in order that the boys' band might play at the football game one week ago Saturday. I immediately wrote a letter to the chairman of the band commission informing him of the serious and indignant protests and asked for an explanation. The report was that the band was working out as well."

"All right, give me the 60 days at the farm instead of the 30 at the jail," he replied and his request was immediately granted, the original sentence of the court having been withdrawn and both Hanson and Cunningham were committed to the state farm at Vandalia for 60 days each, with the provision that the costs incurred in the case be worked out as well.

Tony Cantagello appeared in the county court this morning with his attorney, Mark C. Keller, prepared for the hearing in which he is charged with assault with a deadly weapon upon Henry P. Purose. State's Attorney Edward Jones asked for a continuance, when a jury trial was asked for and Judge Leech set the case for Friday morning at 9 o'clock. Sheriff Richardson is instructed to summon a panel of 18 talesmen, with a very small number residing in Dixon, to report for jury service in the trial of the case, and Cantagello was returned to the county jail.

In the opinion of the company's legal advisors, the statement says, "the company has the right to continue to render service to those of its customers who desire service to be continued, and each of its customers has the right to decide for himself whether he will continue with the company or change over to the municipal plant, if and when the municipal plant is capable of supplying such service."

They were arrested Friday noon after quite a chase by Patrolman John Bohnstiel for taking several pairs of women's hose from the Spurgeon store.

"Say, Judge, can't you make that the state farm instead of the county jail?" Hanson asked the court after sentence had been imposed. "I'd rather go down to the farm where I can work instead of laying it out in the jail."

The request, a most unusual one, was given immediate consideration by the court. The State's Attorney and the Sheriff who conferred only to find that a state farm sentence could not be less than 60 days and Hanson was so informed.

Will Not Be Opened Until Men Show A Desire To Work

(By The Associated Press.)

Return to work of several thousand steel company employees in West Virginia and Ohio, and strikes in the cotton and lettuce fields of California, marked the industrial scene today.

Escorted by 50 state policemen, the first day shift of Wierton, W. Va. Steel Company employees went back to their jobs after a week's strike. Pickets about the mill were dispersed by tear gas.

Following decision of the union leaders to recall pickets, workers in the company's Steubenville, O., unit began to trek back to work. Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Possibility that the universe, like the cat with nine lives, may be "re-born" every so often through a mighty explosion, only to "die" and be re-born again in another similar blast, was outlined today by Abbe Georges Le Maitre, noted Belgian scientist.

Under his theory our universe perhaps is built out of ashes of another universe that existed before this one began, the Abbe explained. When the present universe dies also, as many scientists believe it will, still another universe may be born out of its ashes and live on for untold ages more.

Abbe Le Maitre is world-famous for his theories about the origin and structure of the universe. He is on leave from the University of Louvain to give a course in the theory of relativity here this winter at the Catholic University of America.

Bay City, Mich., Oct. 10.—(AP)—W. D. Edenburg, Detroit, widely known in automobile and powerboat racing circles, was injured near here last night in an automobile accident in which Earl Jeff, Detroit, was instantly killed.

Jeff was driving the Edenburg car, which crashed into a tree and overturned.

Clarence Dennis, brother with whom Mrs. Jacquith was stopping at Sandy Creek, declined to discuss the case today. Troopers said they had no orders respecting the woman or the child.

FREIGHTER SANK SATURDAY: 21 OF CREW MISSING

Italian Steamer Has Captain And Four Men On Board

Winthrop, Mass., Oct. 10.—(AP)—The Coast Guard radio station at Winthrop early today picked up a wireless message from the Italian steamer Montello reporting the sinking of the Greek freighter An-noula and the rescue of the An-noula's captain and four of her crew.

The master of the Montello said he picked up one of the An-noula's small boats last night. The Greek freighter's captain, George Couvoulos, and four of his crew were in the boat, the message said. The Montello was proceeding to Philadelphia with the rescued men. Twenty one of the An-noula's crew were reported missing.

The message said the An-noula sank at about 34.30 north, 66.40 west on Saturday, Oct. 7 at 1:30 A. M. The position given, Coast Guard officers said, is approximately 600 miles east of Cape Lookout, N. C.

The Coast Guard radio station broadcast a message to all ships in the vicinity to keep a sharp watch for the missing members of the crew.

The master of the Montello gave no details of the An-noula's sinking.

Assassination Of Gus Winkler Alarms Officers

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Alarmed over the shotgun murder of Gus Winkler, the federal government today ordered armed guards to protect witnesses in the $250,000 Chicago mail robbery case of which Winkler's death supposedly was an aftermath.

"We've taken steps to protect our witnesses," said Assistant United States Attorney Edward A. Fisher. United States Marshals were selected as the guards.

From another federal source it was learned orders had been issued for special precautions to be taken for two score prisoners held in a half dozen cells in connection with the robbery and disposal of the loot.

Fear More Killings

Winkler was killed, both city and federal authorities agreed, because he "knew too much" and other gangsters feared he might talk to police officers. They expressed open fears that more killings might follow.

Another menacing figure in gangdom—William "Three Fingers Jack" White—entered the case today when a federal official declared

$10,000 Casket Is Bought For Gangster—

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(AP)—In the pomp and pelf he loved as a gangster domiciled on Lake Shore Drive, Gus Winkler will go to his grave in the family plot at St. Louis.

"I want Gusie to have the best of everything," said his widow, Gerorgette, as she chose a silver casket today. The tag on the ornate coffin read $10,000.

Diamonds will gleam on the bosom of the starched shirt clothing the body, from which surgeons took 111 shotgun pellets. A sacred heart of platinum, a cross of silver, and the flashy gems the gangster affected in the days of underworld power will be laid with him in his casket.

"I'm even going to bury his diamonds with him," the blonde widow said.

White was one of the actual mail robbers. He has been sought for weeks, it was said.

Meanwhile, as police pried through underworld sources they learned Winkler had more power in gangdom than they had dreamed. He didn't he had been a "stool pigeon," but they agreed he had control of gambling that netted millions yearly.

Had Been Mistrusted

He had been mistrusted in gangland, they said, since he returned $600,000 of loot taken in the "world's biggest bank robbery" at Lincoln, Neb. Before that he had been an inter-state worker for Capone, a suspect in the killing of seven men in the St. Valentine's Day Massacre, and a known bank robber.

Police said they believed a prominent gangster was marked for death.

Concurrent with the rumblings of possible killings, John J. (Boss) McLaughlin, former state legislator and one of those held in the mail robbery, announced through his attorney that he would remain in jail. Efforts to reduce his bond to $25,000 from $50,000 were dropped.

Three suspects were arrested today in the killing of Winkler. All were minor police characters, and police did not disclose the evidence against them.

DEAD MEN CAN'T TALK

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The body of Winkler, heir to part of the affluence of the old Capone gang lay in a morgue today, mute evidence of the gangland rule that dead men tell no tales.

In gangland they call talking to authorities the "squeal," and it was the theory of investigators that his enemies pumped four volleys of shotgun pellets into his body yesterday to keep him from telling what he knew about the $250,000 mail robbery.

Winkler was the second person linked with the robbery in one way or another, to die. The other was Edgar B. Levensberger, owner of a swanky club on Chicago's near north side. Levensberger was found shot to death the other day shortly before it was revealed that he was under indictment in connection with the robbery. Some investigators said he might have been murdered, despite a Coroner's verdict of suicide.

Report Others Marked

And while Winkler's body lay in a mortuary where newspapers reports that his slayers have marked for death, one or possibly two other men to silence them in the federal government's investigation of the robbery. One newspaper said this had been learned on what it described as an "unimpeachable authority."

The report that Winkler, who had

Protect Babies From Night Drafts

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Fresh air is one thing and drafts are another. I often wish that air could be colored according to current, so that when we open our windows at night we would know what we are doing.

If the north wind could be blue, the south wind red, and east and west, green and yellow respectively,

we wouldn't be guessing

We could fix our sashes for instance, so a nice red-yellow breeze, moving to orange, of course, once inside our room, blew us gently to slumberland. Then turning over on our side or so later and realizing that something had happened, we could snap on the light. "What!

That blue wind coming under the door was not there before. And just watch how it creeps along the floor and up the wall and is coloring the space around our bedsteads the shade of a sickly cold-in-the-head. If it's this way in our room, it must be worse in the nursery.

Lining Open Beds

Sure enough, there is the nursery as blue as indigo, and what's more the blue stream is beating against the wall beside Johnny's bed and bouncing back and down like Niagara all around his little uncovered body!

But air is not colored. We have to go on guessing and predicting.

Windows cannot be fixed for long to suit any and every change in the elements.

The best thing we can do is to set our wits to work in the rooms themselves.

I don't know why they still make baby beds with bars. Long ago the bar bed for adults was found to be risky. We went back to the good old "heads" that kept drafts off the necks of our grand-sires.

But after all, there is a simple remedy. This is to line the small bed with quilted cotton, cheap at the stores, and easy to fit on and use with tapes. It is none too soon to be lining the open beds of the children.

Diverting Air Currents

Another thing is to place the bed almost anywhere but directly opposite a window. Still another is to get a floor screen, or make one, to divert a direct current of cold air. A little later, when the nights get bitter, muslin or cheesecloth window screens, put in at bedtime, will save many a cold.

Just now, much depends on covers. We can't get out all the comforts and blankets and dress up the beds and say, "That's that!

All set now for six months." We are still in for a warm night, now and then. To cover the children too heavily is a direct invitation to Old Man Cold. To cover them too thinly is as bad. So what is the answer? What you are already doing, very likely. Going in once or twice through the night to see how things are and adjusting win-

EUROPE HAS THE JITTERS.

The attempted assassination of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria did nothing to quiet the jittery nerves of Europe. Between the intrigues of France to keep Germany under thumb, and the desperate efforts of Germany to gain any sort of support from any source and escape the iron rule of the Versailles treaty, Europe is drifting into a state which has a future none too pleasant.

Dictator Hitler is a symptom of what ails Germany. France unwittingly created Hitler and placed him in power by repressive action. It is to be wondered whether France should not have followed a policy of conciliation and friendliness immediately after the war. France made it plain that she had no enmity for the German people immediately after the war, but desired rather to keep Germany from being victimized by war lords. Then France immediately took revenge, bled Germany white financially and at last surrounded the nation with governments that hated the Germans.

The French erred, however, in permitting the German people to express their anger at the polls. They should have been denied a vote if the French policy were to avoid stirring up such men as Hitler.

Today gas masks are being sold in department stores of Paris.

Dollfuss controls only 40 percent of the vote in Austria. He is kept in office by subsidies from France. The Austrian people, accepting the friendship of France, realize that the French merely are playing them against their old friends in Germany, and resent it. How long the French can continue subsidizing Austria against Germany is a question not to be answered immediately. Some of this subsidizing has been done with money the French ought to have paid the United States on the war debt.

If the Germans are incorrigible war-makers the French are storing up trouble for themselves. If the Germans are not incorrigible war-makers, the French are not following an enlightened policy.

STRIKES TROUBLE NRA.

An epidemic of strikes throughout the country is embarrassing to the NRA, just as it is getting under way the operations under codes. Perhaps the strikers have had so little to do that prospects of better days are enlivening their spirits and they want to join in a parade or something.

As we said heretofore, the mere fact that the government has set itself back of the labor union movement and that men are taking advantage of their new backing to add to their organizations is nothing in itself. Everything depends upon what the men do after they are organized and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. They can help the situation or they can hurt it.

If the backing of the government incites demands that can not be met and strikes that can not be settled, then industry can not go forward rapidly. More than that, the aim of the NRA, the increase of purchasing power, is defeated. Striking for recognition of a particular union does not increase purchasing power.

The law upon which the NRA is based compels employers to deal with representatives of employees, but it does not compel the employers to agree with them. Out of that situation has grown the industrial discord and the epidemic of strikes.

A DISTATOR'S SECURITY.

The new order of the Hitler government controlling the newspapers gives you a pretty good idea of the way a dictatorship works to cut off all possible public criticism of its acts.

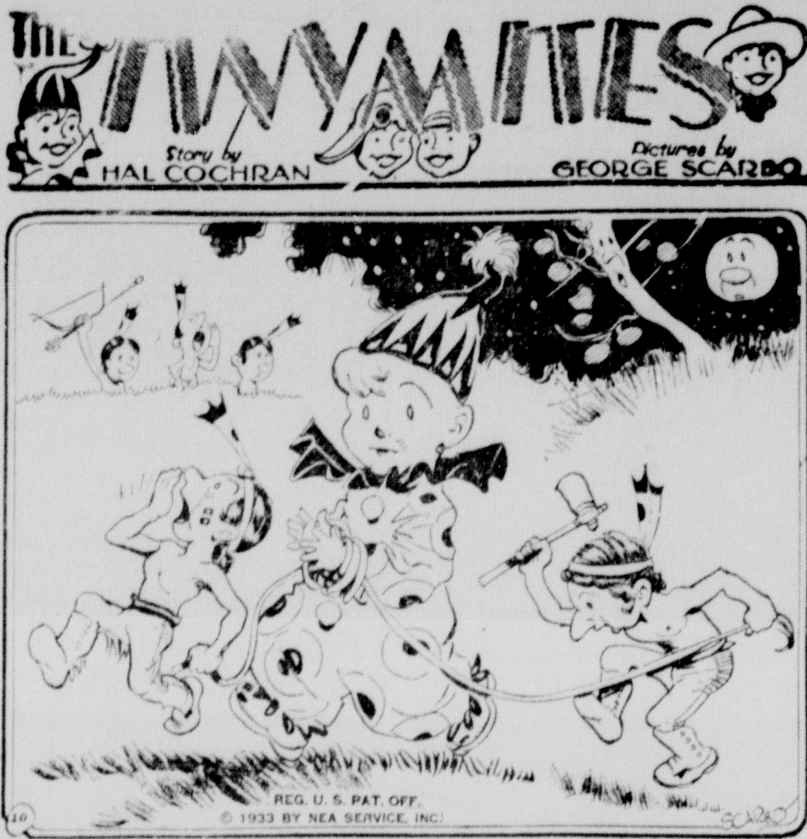

Under this order, all publications unreservedly must uphold the rightness of the Hitler regime. All pretense that they are organs of free opinions is dropped. They become, quite avowedly, propaganda mechanisms. Writers or editors who publish articles in defiance of this law can be sentenced to death.

To get a notion of the way which a law works, imagine it in operation in this country today. No newspaper would dare criticize any aspect of the NRA program. No article intimating that there was the slightest defect in the program ever could be printed. If Mr. Roosevelt intervened in Cuba, no publication could do anything but applaud; if Mr. Farley over-reached himself in putting deserving Democrats in office, nobody could so much as peep about it.

Those who say we have a dictatorship in America might ponder about the things that go with a genuine European-style dictatorship. As long as we have a free press, we are safe.

The campus is no longer a cloister nor is the university any more a retreat from the world. It is in the world and of the world.—Dr. Harry W. Chase, chancellor of New York University.

If we insist on being loyal to our party instead of our ideals, then let us lay the blame for bad government where it belongs — at your door and mine. — Rev. Thomas H. Whelpley of New York.

As little Duncy snoozed away, one of the Indians whispered, "Say, what is that youngster doing here? That's what I'd like to know."

"I've never seen the lad before. I fear that trouble is in store. What say we try to scare him? Maybe that will make him go!"

Another said, "I hope you're right. Come on, we'll yell with all our might. Then we can hide behind some trees. He won't know what to think."

"No doubt, he'll start to look around and then, when not a thing is found, he'll likely get excited and then leave here in a wink."

Just as they were about to yell, a third small Indian said, "I'll tell you what would be a better plan. Let's rope the little scamp."

"We'll do it while he's sleeping sound and when we have him safely bound, we'll all pull on the rope and lead him right back to our camp."

"I have a lot of rope right here. The plan will work out, never fear." And then the band crawled closer, moving on their hands and knees.

They soon reached Duncy's side, and then they all dashed out of sight again. The sudden scare they all got came when Duncy chanced to sneeze.

"Just wait," said one. "He soon will be right back in slumberland. You'll see!" And sure enough they shortly heard wee Duncy start to snore.

Then, up they rushed. My, what a sight! They led poor Duncy up real tight. The lad was to be dumfounded, all he said was, "What's this for?"

"Don't say a word," one Indian said. "We've captured you. Now, use your head and do what we tell you to. Then nothing will go wrong."

"We're going to take you far from here, but promise there is no fight to fear." Then, when the Indians started out, wee Duncy trailed along.

Everyday Religion

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

At Niagara Falls, at the very edge of the current, where wild and whirling waters go thundering by, little birds make their nests in holes in the rocks. So a friend of mine reports, and he even wrote an essay about it, finding many things worth pondering on.

For one thing, it suggests the wisdom of making places of quiet in life, while the torrent of humanity rushes on. In our cities, especially, life is a chaos of hurry and a bedlam of noise, and we need to make or find such nests of quiet. Otherwise, we are in danger of losing our wits, as well as our poise, nagged by incessant noise.

In London one can do it. Off the busiest streets one finds all sorts of quiet nooks and places of peace, where the din of the traffic falls to a low hum. There, only a few steps from the endless procession, one can recover his sanity and his sense of values. Or one can drop into an old church, out of time into the stillness of eternity.

To be in the great business of life, yet able to step out of it at times, if need be, is vitally important. Not only to escape noise, which is both a nuisance and a menace, but to get away from the rushing torrent of events. Life moves so rapidly today, and things pile in upon us so fast and furiously, that we lose our perspective.

In the worst days of the World War, amidst a roar of bad news, the raucous voices of editors, and the intrigues of parties, a man found Asquith, late at night, in a nook reading the Bible and Boswell. That is to say, the Prime Minister knew the knack of making a nest in the Niagara of events, in order to keep his poise of mind.

In our highest life we most need nests of quiet, if we are to save our souls. The art of meditation is well high lost among us, because we do not know how to practice it. The result is snap-shot thinking and hop-skip judgments, and we lose our way in the din.

Of old it was said, "Be still and know;" that is, build a nest in Niagara and learn to think quietly despite the roar!

When WGN was broadcasting the Democratic convention in Chicago last summer, Quinn Ryan made a prediction which didn't seem to work out. After it was certain that Franklin Roosevelt and John Garner would be running mates, Ryan orally guessed at the campaign song. He thought it would be "Frankie and Johnny," but it turned out to be "Happy Days are Here Again."

Why do they continue to use the letter V for U on the cornerstones of public buildings? And why do they use Roman numerals?

The NRA program has many important stumbling blocks. One is the relation between employer and employee. It is too much to expect the little fellow to take on wartime enthusiasm openly before the eyes of the man who hires him; unless, of course, the worker happens to belong to a protective union.

CHIEF MITCHELL URGES CITIZENS TO PRECAUTIONS

He Makes Suggestions In Connection With Prevention Week

All citizens should take the initiative and inspect their homes for hazards says Fire Chief William Mitchell in a special Fire Prevention Week message. The appaling thing about fires in homes, asserts the Chief, is that most of them occur from some act of carelessness or downright laziness. Statistics of the National Fire Waste Council show that most of the deaths caused by fires were in homes or buildings of the residential class. The terrible experience of having a fire break out in your home can be largely prevented and your home made a safe place for your loved ones by using foresight and exercising care. For the guidance of the public, the Chief issued a few simple rules which if put to practical use will save life and property. These rules are as follows:

1. Keep matches where small children cannot reach them. Don't smoke in the garage, barn or attic nor in bed. Be sure you put out lighted matches and smokes before you throw them away.

2. Remove from the basement, attic and closets all rubbish, and waste papers and unnecessary combustible materials. Provide metal ash and trash cans. Burn rubbish only in a safely covered brick or metal incinerator and watch the fire.

3. Inspect and clean out stoves, furnaces and smoke pipes to make sure they are safe and well away from the woodwork or other burnable materials before starting fires for the winter. Needed repairs should be made at once. Many fires are caused by dirty or defective chimneys. Have them cleaned regularly and kept in good repair.

4. Dry cleaning should only be done with safe liquids. Never start fires with kerosene or gasoline and such liquids should not be kept in the house.

5. Notify electric company of electrical trouble and gas company of gas leaks. Avoid home made wiring jobs and replace "blown" fuses with new ones. Don't lock gas leaks with a match or candle. Instruct the family to be careful of fires, to watch stoves, fireplaces, electric irons and all other possible fire causes.

6. Each member of the family should know how to send an alarm. In telephoning be sure the address is clearly understood. Use a neighbors phone rather than one in the burning building. Explain to every one in the house what to do in case of fire, how to put out fire in clothing by wrapping in a rug or blanket, what to do when grease catches fire in the kitchen.

7. Make your home fire proof as far as possible by fire-proof roofing, fire stopping in all walls and

PEACE IN EAST THREATENED BY MOSCOW RUMOR

Soviet Capital Agog Of Report Japan Is After Railroad

Tokay, Oct. 10.—(AP)—New differences between Russia and Japan rose today to clutter the path to continued peace in the Far East.

Tentatively, said a Japanese Foreign Office spokesman, Japan will content herself with investigation of the circulation at Moscow of documents which allegedly described a Japanese plot to seize the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Then, he added, "stronger measures may be necessary" unless guarantees of "good faith" immediately are forthcoming from the U. S. S. R.

The new threat to peace, like others before it, was born of the protracted wrangling over negotiations for the sale of the C. E. R. Japan entered the conversations officially as a mediator in the projected sale by Russia to Nippon's puppet state, Manchukuo.

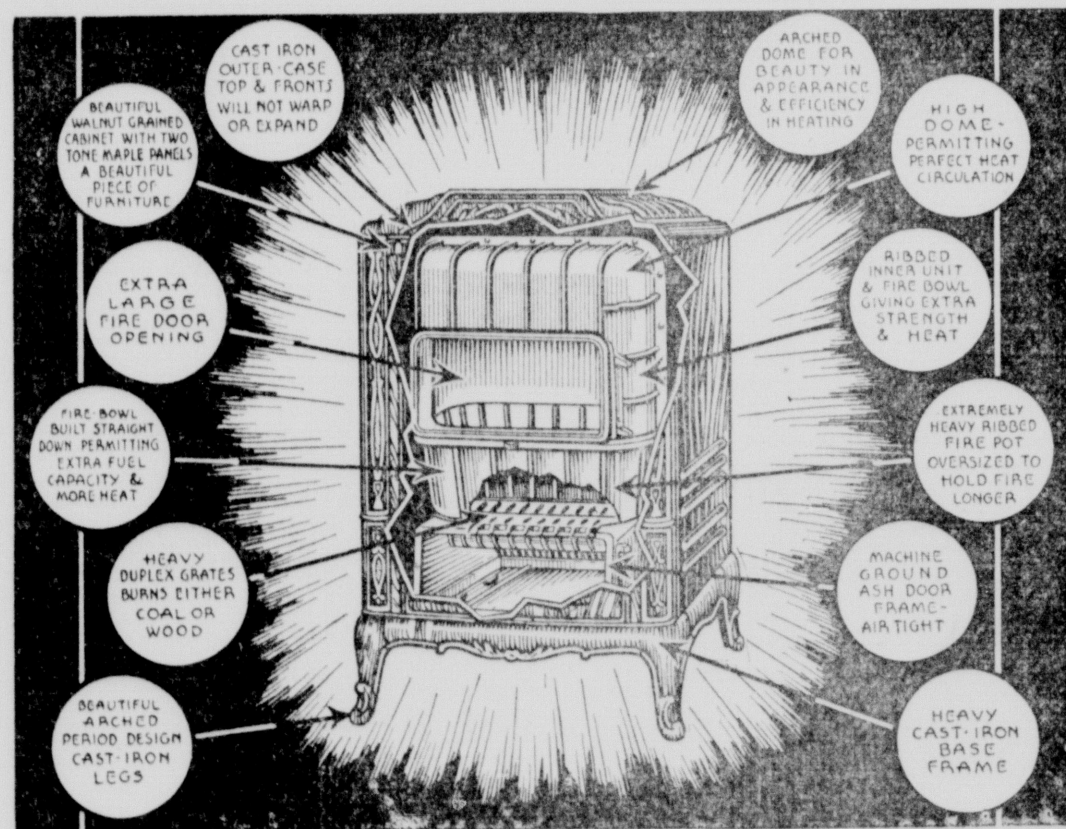

But charges have flared frequently in the Soviet Capital that Tokyo was going further—was, in fact, as most lately asserted, joining in a plot to seize the road.

The plan, as reported in Moscow, was to arrest six Soviet officials of the road and thus accomplish the ousting of Soviets from all authority in the management.

The new Russian charges, aired in Moscow through the Soviet news agency, Tass, were labeled "utter fabrications" by the Foreign Office spokesman.

FARMERS' ASSN. WILL KEEP EYES ON SPRINGFIELD

I. A. A. Director Of Taxation Discusses Proposed Laws

Prospects of $39,000,000 additional taxes on all Illinois property to be levied in 1934 are involved in legislation now pending before the special session of the Illinois General Assembly, according to information received by the Lee Co. Farm Bureau from the Illinois Agricultural Association today.

The bills providing for this huge assessment in the interest of unemployment relief are demanded chiefly by Chicago and are scheduled to be voted on at an early date.

If the levy is made, Illinois farmers would be required to pay approximately $7,800,000 more taxes in one year, according to John C. Watson, director of taxation for the I. A. A.

The bills which have administrative approval provide for the issuance of $28,500,000 of state anti-pollution tax warrants against the proposed $39,000,000 levy, also for a bond issue of $30,000,000 to redeem the tax warrants if the bond issue is approved by the voters in the November election of 1934.

If approved, the bonds and interest thereon will be payable one-half out of future gasoline tax allotments to the counties, and one-half out of future gas tax allotments to the cities and villages, the state withholding from such allotments the necessary amounts in proportion to expenditures of such local bonds in each county.

"There is no certainty that the bond issue will be approved by the voters in the general election next fall, in fact, approval is seriously doubted," said Mr. Watson. "And if it is not approved the state levy on all property in 1934 may, and almost surely will, be more than doubled, costing owners of farm property as much as $1,800,000 in a single year, or an average of more than $35 per farm."

The Illinois Agricultural Association is supporting a series of bills similar in most respects to the Lantz bills passed in the last session and later vetoed by the governor. Introduced by Senator Lantz, they are now ready for final vote in the Senate. They lay the same mandatory duty upon the city of Chicago and upon the townships outside of Chicago in Cook county to levy taxes for poor relief and give the same taxing power as now exists in all townships in 85 counties of the state. They also give an additional tax rate up to 15 cents to the 16 commission governed counties, downstate to be used exclusively for poor relief.

All such additional taxes both in Cook county and in the commission-governed counties are to be paid over to the State Unemployment Relief Commission, thus bringing the Illinois Agricultural Association bills within the call of the special session. In all such counties, the Commission is required to spend in each taxing unit the taxes collected therein for relief.

SEEK GREATER UNITY
Approximately 2000 lieutenants directed by some 90 county captains launched a Farm Bureau mobilization campaign throughout Illinois Monday according to reports from the organized counties compiled by the Illinois Agricultural Association. The object of the state-wide drive as announced by the Association, "is to give all Illinois farmers the opportunity to stand together and present a solid front in the fight for recovery, as organized labor, business, and industry are doing."

Among those who will take part in the campaign in Lee county are J. E. Mau, captain, and Lieutenants Chauncey Robbins, Amboy; Lester Ullensvang, Alto; Bert Reed, Ashton; Wm. Taylor, Bradford; Robert Ramsdell, China; Geo. Kofod, E. Grove; Clifford Larkin, Hamilton; John Dimmig, Harmon; Ormand Dixon, Lee Center; Leon Garrison, Dixon; Wm. Fitzpatrick, Marion; Chas. Goy, May; Claude Currens, Nachusa; Ward Hartshorn, Nelson; Clarence Lenox, Palmyra; Alvin Detig, Reynolds; N. C. Miller, So. Dixon; Wm. F. Ulch, Sublette; Clarence Ackland, Viola; Walter Thomas, Wyoming; Robert Mullins, Willow Creek, and Arlo Gilmore of Brooklyn township.

In launching the campaign, the Association is sending approximately 100,000 copies of a special eight-page newspaper issue of its official organ, the I. A. A. Record, to as many Illinois farmers.

"Higher Farm Prices," "Immediate Farm Credit Relief," and a "50% Tax Cut on Property" are the three immediate objectives as set forth in the Record, just off the press.

Every Word We Know Is Stored in Small Space

Science is revealing many wonderful things about the human brain. It long has been known that different parts of the brain perform different functions, but science is relating the parts and the functions, so that the exact location of an impairment may be determined before an operation. A small section of the brain may be a storehouse for a specific thing. A professor of Latin and Greek suffered a blow on the head. He remembered everything else, but could remember nothing about Latin and Greek. This and many other experiences from head injuries are related by a writer in Popular Science Monthly. One injury left the victim with perfect sight, but printed words meant nothing. Another, after a similar experience, had perfect hearing, but spoken words had lost their meaning. "In one small patch of gray matter, hardly larger than a nickel," says this authority, "is stored every word we know."

Daily Health Talk

SCARLET FEVER

Scarlet fever, largely a disease of childhood, may follow also in the wake of wounds, burns, scalds, and various other types of injuries, for the germ takes root wherever there has been destruction of tissue.

Scarlet fever in one form is a toxin disease while in the other it is a blood-poisoning disease.

In the toxin disease, at some given point in the body the germ of scarlet fever has taken hold. There the defense of the body is opposing the germ and holding it in check.

However, the germ is able to send into circulation its toxic products. The germs are stationary but the toxins circulate. In this form of scarlet fever, the antitoxin which has been developed in recent years proves very effective.

In the blood-poisoning phase of scarlet fever the germ has broken through the defense barriers of the body and has spread within the body. In this condition the scarlet fever antitoxin treatment is only moderately effective. The blood poisoning phase of scarlet fever is much more serious than the toxin form.

For this reason, though scarlet fever is a mild disease and during the last 50 years has become ever more mild in its manifestations, it is important that every case of scarlet fever should be treated with due respect for its possible complications.

So very much depends upon the strength of the barriers at the site of the infection. If the germ is kept confined the disease is merely toxic in nature and can be treated effectively with the antitoxin developed by the Doctors Dick.

In the blood-poisoning type life is jeopardized and serious complications threaten.

Prompt care, bed rest, good nursing and the early administration of scarlet fever antitoxin will go far in keeping the simple toxic case from being converted into the more serious form.

EUROPEAN STAR SHOWER IS NOT VISIBLE IN U. S.

Meteoric Display Is The Greatest Since November, 1885

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The chances are 99 in 100 that a rain of falling stars in Europe last night was a shower of space-wandering stones which the earth never encountered before, according to Dr. Charles P. Olivier, astronomer of the University of Pennsylvania.

Whether this stream of meteoric stones was so large that the earth was still within its borders with possibilities of more meteoric displays tonight, he said was not certain but unlikely.

The European showers lasted about two hours, just after sunset, and when word of them was flashed to Dr. Olivier, head of the American Meteor Society, he had the heavens watched for hours. Up to this forenoon he had not received reports of even one meteor sighted on the American side of the Atlantic.

Probably Small Stream
This, he said, indicated that probably the shower was over completely within a very short time after its first appearance. This complete termination could arise from the fact that the stream of flying stones was small, or if it was a wide stream, then the earth may have cut through only a small section of the meteor pathway.

The cabled descriptions of 60 to 70 meteors a minute made last night's display the greatest since November 1885, when a stream of meteoric stones, known as the Bielids, dotted the heavens with fire. The Bielids were considered the broken remnants of Biel's comet.

Until the European astronomers decide the radiant, that is the point in the heavens from which last night's meteors radiated, Dr. Olivier said it will be difficult to calculate their possible sources among the streams of dust and stones which continually wander through space.

"SHOW DOWN" ON BAND MATTERS MAYOR'S ORDER

ly stated that rules of the musicians' union covered the subject. If it is necessary to go to New York City to secure a permit for the Dixon high school boys to play at a Dixon football game, then I am ready to be shown and I for one am of the opinion that it is time for a show down on this whole matter.

Constant Controversy
"There has been trouble over the band and a controversy over union matters ever since this band was organized. We have a good band and a competent band commission and the time has come when these difficulties must be settled. This recent flare-up about the boys' band playing at the football games has placed the situation before this council in a way that some action must be taken. If there be any reason why these boys cannot play at the football games, then this council is entitled to know what it is, when they are under the supervision of a competent director. If it is a union protest, they may have a plausible explanation to present and the council would be glad to hear it. As conditions now stand the band tax will be voted down at the next election. It is time to eliminate this nonsense of preventing the boys from playing at the football games and to put an end to all the rest of the difficulties."

W. H. Flamm of this city, who was an applicant for the directorship of the Dixon Civic band last spring, appeared before the council and read a lengthy plan which he presented for the consideration of the city commission. His plan would provide for a material reduction in the cost of providing the city with a civic band, and in addition he outlined a proposed program and made several recommendations.

Would Effect Saving
He first called the attention of the council to the fact that the band tax will be voted down at the next election. It is time to eliminate this nonsense of preventing the boys from playing at the football games and to put an end to all the rest of the difficulties."

Predicts Tax Repeal
Mr. Flamm told the council that his name had been suggested to the council for the directorship of the Dixon Civic band last spring, appeared before the council and read a lengthy plan which he presented for the consideration of the city commission. His plan would provide for a material reduction in the cost of providing the city with a civic band, and in addition he outlined a proposed program and made several recommendations.

the council to the fact that the terms of two members of the present band commission have expired and that they have not been reappointed or successors named. He urged the council to fill these vacancies soon. He suggested a band organization of 32 members, all to be residents of Dixon. A total of 24 rehearsals would be conducted prior to the opening of the concert season, the members of the band to receive 75 cents for each rehearsal and $2 per concert. He estimated a total of $2,976.00 for salaries for such a band, a saving of 20 per cent over the present system, and added "this plan will probably meet with noisy opposition from some quarters."

He further proposed through co-operation with the board of education to place band music on the high school curriculum and permit the extending of credits to students; a combined grade school band; the use of the saxette in the grade schools for the purpose of discovering new talent among the children; the reorganization of the band in the St. Mary's parochial school; that all concerts be played at the high school athletic field where a band stand could be erected in the spring to remain until the close of the concert season as a means of reducing the expenditure of erecting a stand for each concert. His plan, he stated would provide the sum of $2,976.00 for wiring and lighting the concert band stand for the season, $150 for music, $50 for printing and $50 for repairs to instruments, making a total of $3,326.00 which, he said, would represent a saving of $2,674 over the present system.

Tyler Asks For Economy
Commissioner Cal Tyler told the council that there was a need for economy, and that if the proposition would prove effective in providing a suitable band, that it was one which was deserving of the serious consideration of the council, to which Mayor Dixon replied that the present band was unorganized and that if the plan could be organized with harmony and with economy, it was worthy of consideration of the present distressed conditions and high taxation, that many of the citizens prefer seeing economy practiced.

"If the members of some organizations do not like it, then it is just too bad," Commissioner Tyler continued, then added, "We are not satisfying a small group of people."

Mr. Flamm had stated that he had been informed that 14 members of the Civic band were not residents of Dixon and to this, Commissioner Lotus added:

"If it is necessary to send out of town for 14 musicians to make up a band then it is about time that some instruction was started in the schools."

Predicts Tax Repeal
Mr. Flamm told the council that his name had been suggested to the council for the directorship of the Dixon Civic band last spring, appeared before the council and read a lengthy plan which he presented for the consideration of the city commission. His plan would provide for a material reduction in the cost of providing the city with a civic band, and in addition he outlined a proposed program and made several recommendations.

Dante, the Italian Poet, Was Native of Florence

Dante, the celebrated Italian poet, was born in Florence in the latter part of May, 1265; the date is uncertain. His family was an old one, his father an adherent of the Guelph party in the long feud with the Ghibellines.

At nine Dante first saw Beatrice Portinari, then only eight. The "Vita Nuova" is practically a history of his love for her. She enters also into the Divine Comedy. In 1287 she was married, but not to Dante, who expressed no disappointment at her marriage. She died soon afterward, at the age of twenty-four. Dante himself married about two years later.

He became passionately absorbed in the love of country, and at the age of twenty-four fought on the side of the Guelphs at the battle of Campaldino. He was intrusted with several foreign missions and became an important factor in the Florentine government. Time modified his ardent partisanship, and he was occupied with plans for the reconciliation of the Guelphs and Ghibellines. In 1303 he abandoned his public career and spent the remainder of his life in wandering from one city to another and in study. He died at Ravenna September 14, 1321.

"MEMPHIS BILL" TERRY IS SIGNED FOR FIVE YEARS

Giants' Manager Is Rewarded For Development Of His Team

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—For a young man going on 36 who has the reputation of fighting for what he wants—and getting it—Memphis Bill Terry has done pretty well for himself. On top of leading the New York Giants to a pennant and world championship with one of the greatest pitchers in baseball history, Terry marched out of club headquarters today with a new five-year contract as player-manager.

In the same offices where barely six months ago Memphis Bill tilted the big cigar and suggested the Giants might finish as high as third place, with some luck, he signed a document that makes him commander-in-chief on the field from 1934 to 1938 inclusive and assures him an annual salary reliably reported at $40,000. Thus he becomes not only the "man of the year" in baseball but the highest salaried player or manager in the National League.

Has "Huddle System"
Back of Terry's remarkable success of 1933 is the story of something new in the ancient game of baseball—the "huddle system."

"There were no secrets on my ball club this year," says Terry. "I told the players early in the season that when they saw me go over for a talk with the pitcher, I wanted them all in on it. We found it worked so well that we got more and more into the habit of talking things over and working them out during the game, especially when a critical situation developed. In that way, everybody had an interest in fulfilling his job to the utmost."

"You can call it the 'huddle system.' That's all right with me. The main thing is that it developed confidence and a feeling of cooperation among all hands when we got into the tight spots. We simply played the percentage and used common sense."

Word From Bench
"The crowning example of how this system worked, for me, was when our infield pulled that double play at the finish of the fourth game of the world series in that tough eleventh inning. Bolton, a pinch-hitter was coming up, with one out, the bases filled, with Hubbell pitching. So we went into a huddle. We talked about a double play but didn't know how fast Bolton was. Then word came from Charley Dressen, on the bench, that he knew Bolton was a slow runner. That settled it. Ryan and Critz went back. Hubbell made Bolton hit into the ground and the double play was a cinch."

"You ask me for the three outstanding turning points of the series? That double play was one of them. The others were my stab of Gosselin's hard drive, choking off a threat by the Senators in the eighth inning of the first game, and Gus Mancuso's successful execution of the squeeze play in the sixth inning rally we staged for six runs in the second game. Boy, I don't mind telling you I got a real thrill out of them."

No Major Changes
Terry does not contemplate any major changes in the Giants for 1934 when he starts his new long term in office, but he said he will not hesitate to rebuild at any time and in any position, when it seems necessary.

"We must have a winning club in New York," he says. "That's simply good business. This team is mostly young and has just found itself. There are only a few old fellows, like Hughie Critz and myself, but we are not through yet, by a long shot. That grand old pitcher, Delio Luque, is getting along in years, too, but he has a job with the Giants as long as he wants it. "Vergez will be back in shape in the spring. Players like Joe Moore, George Davis, Gus Mancuso, Blondy Ryan, Hal Schumacher and Roy Parmelee, are just developing. They will be better next year. And as for Hubbell, he will remain the greatest pitcher in baseball for some years to come. There's only one like him."

SOUTH AFRICAN VICTOR IN HIS NEW YORK DEBUT

McCorkindale Given Decision Over Pat-sy Perroni

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Don McCorkindale, tall, game, heavy-weight from South Africa, has cleared the first obstacle in what may turn out to be a successful if not especially lucrative, American tour.

While a bare 4,000 fans looked on, McCorkindale boxed his way to a 10-round decision over Pat-sy Perroni, young Cleveland brawler, in Madison Square Garden last night. He displayed an educated left hand and a strong disinclination to assume a horizontal attitude when he was tagged full on the chin.

Perroni fought a dull sort of a fight most of the way but he did land one right cross square on the chin in the ninth round and two heavy right uppercuts to the same spot in the tenth. But each time McCorkindale, hurt though he was, opened up with both fists and fought his way clear.

Although the judges disagreed and Referee Patsey Hale cast the deciding vote for McCorkindale, the Associated Press scorecard credited Don with five rounds, Perroni with three with two even. McCorkindale weighed 191 1/2 pounds; Perroni, 193.

VINES DESERTS AMATEUR RANKS TO JOIN TILDEN

Gets Good Contract On Heels Of Disastrous Season

By Herbert W. Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Eliot Vines finally has taken his plunge into professional tennis. Hard on the heels of the most disastrous season of his comparatively brief career, the 22-year-old Pasadena youngster has signed a one year contract with Big Bill Tilden on terms Tilden declines to disclose but which possibly will net Vines about $25,000 for 1934.

The tall Californian, amateur champion of the United States in 1931 and 1932 and Wimbledon title holder in 1932, will make his professional debut in a match with Tilden in Madison Square Garden January 10.

Then will follow a short tour to the Pacific coast and back after which Tilden and Vines will engage in a series of nine contests, along on Davis Cup lines, against Henri Cochet and Martin Plaa of France. The first of these will be played in the Garden the middle of February.

Although Vines was beaten in every one of his major tests during the campaign just closed, Tilden is confident the youngster quickly will regain the form that made him a sensation in 1931 and 1932.

"The trouble with Vines this year," said Big Bill, "was not that he was losing his skill as a player but that his game was affected by too much pressure, with too many officials trying to tell him what to do to bring back the Davis Cup. I know because I went through the same mill, over a much longer period, and won many of my matches despite official interference and suggestions."

PURDUE LACKING IN PUNCH; FEARS GOPHERS' DRIVE

Minnesota Has Ever Been A Tough One For Indians

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Lacking the punch which characterized last year's team, Purdue University's Boilermakers are none too cheerful over their prospects Saturday when they run up against the husky Minnesota Gophers in a game which opens the Big Ten football campaign for the Hoosiers.

The Northwesterners are powerful enough to strike fear into the heart of any team despite the fact that Indiana held them to a 6 to 6 tie last Saturday. And besides, Purdue has its own special reason for fearing the Minnesotans.

A check of the record books show that Minnesota always has been a tough team for the Boilermakers to beat. Back in 1928 Purdue had title visions before the season started, but Minnesota blurred it with a 15 to 0 victory in the opening game. Last year, with the second best team in the conference, Purdue only beat Coach Bierman's eleven, 7 to 0.

Victory Unimpressive
While Purdue beat Ohio University, 13 to 6 Saturday it failed to impress. The forward wall, which Coach Noble Kizer has been rebuilding, did not come up to expectations and the backfield's performance failed to please him. As a result he ordered a general shake-up yesterday and stressed the poor blocking in Saturday's game.

Not to take any glory away from Indiana's tie with Minnesota, a review of the game shows that the Minnesota eleven was within scoring distance several times, only to lose the ball on penalties and fumbles.

Around the Big Ten
Old man injury caught up with Ozzie Soles' Iowa team again, the most serious being Phil Tuttle's broken ankle. Coach Clark Shaughnessy wasn't the least bit impressed over Chicago's victory Saturday. Coach Spears devoted his time to the Wisconsin reserves yesterday.

Northwestern continued to show improvement. Illinois concentrated on line plays. The Gophers are hampered again by bolts. Reed Kels reported and bolstered Indiana's line, he's a center and scales 225. A shake up took place at Purdue. Ted Petoskey, Michigan's end, may play in the backfield against Cornell U. Saturday.

Ohio state went to the "movies" and watched shots of the Ohio State-Vanderbilt game last year which the Southerners won, 26 to 21. Coach Willaman lectured during the show.

Polar Zones Quakeless, Found After Long Study

It has been found by a representative of the American Museum of Natural History that there is less likelihood of an earthquake in the polar zones than in any other. This report follows the completion of a study over a period of 25 years of earthquake tremors.

During this period only ten quakes were recorded north of the Arctic circle and but five within the limits of the Antarctic circle. More of them occur along the Pacific coast from Kamchatka to New Zealand than in any other region.

All quakes from minor tremors to major disasters average about 4,000 per year with only about 2 per cent of them causing damage to life and property. During the 25 years which his study has covered he has estimated the total number of shocks at 100,000, of which only about 1,800 were major tremors. Of this number only about 14 occurred in the United States and about 12 along the Pacific coast.

Our Atlantic coast has been free from disasters of this kind, but there have been numerous quakes in Latin America and the Caribbean sea region, as well as along the west coast of South America. With the exception of Italy and the Balkans Europe has been fairly free from quakes. Many have occurred around the Mediterranean and China seas as well as in the vicinity of the Polynesian islands.

SIX-HOUR DAY, FIVE-DAY WEEK LABOR'S DEMAND

And Head Of Federation Of Labor Thinks NRA Will Bring Them

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Administration agreement soon to a reopening of existing NRA codes so wages may be increased and hours of work shortened is looked for by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor. Green based his belief on statements made before the federation convention by two persons high in administration councils — Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the Labor Advisory Board, and Secretary Francis Perkins of the Labor Department.

Last week Secretary Perkins said "we cannot stop" with the present minimum wages and maximum hours. Yesterday Wagner said some of the minimum scales should be higher, that perhaps wages in higher brackets should be fixed too, and that a 40-hour week would not reabsorb the unemployed.

Plans Indicated
"Those statements," Green said, "certainly are susceptible of being interpreted to mean that the administration is ready to revise the codes." "One of the speakers was a Cabinet member. The other was appointed to his present post by the President, and as one of the curators of the Recovery Act, probably knows as much about its purpose and what the President wants to accomplish with it as anybody else."

The federation president, who often has contended that existing wage and hour provisions are not satisfactory, added this forecast: "The convention this week will insist upon a general revision of the codes to increase purchasing power further."

A 6-hour day and 5-day week likely will be asked, he added.

OREGON WOMAN CONVICTED OF BEATING EDITOR

President Of "Good Government" League Found Guilty

Medford, Ore., Oct. 10.—(AP)—A Circuit Court jury has convicted Mrs. Henrietta B. Martin, president of the so-called "Good Government Congress," of riotous and disorderly conduct in connection with the purported horse-whipping of Leonard Hall, Jackson county editor, several months ago. The jury, which deliberated three hours recommended leniency. Sentence will be pronounced tomorrow.

Mrs. Martin assailed Hall because his newspaper, the Jacksonville Miner, printed stories which she claimed were insulting.

The incident occurred while the county was engulfed in political turmoil that reached its climax in the fatal shooting of George Prescott, Medford constable.

Llewellyn A. Banks, Medford editor and orchardist and founder of the "Good Government Congress," was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Notice of appeal to the State Supreme court in the Banks case was filed Monday in Circuit Court at Eugene where Banks was tried and convicted.

Elgin, Ill., Oct. 10.—(AP)— Unsolved today was the death of Donald McCartney, 26, rental agent for a building in a section between Wilmette and Kenilworth known as No Man's Land, whose body was found in a field 15 miles northwest of here.

Attorney George D. Carbery of Kane county said he believed the young man shot himself to death and pointed to his automobile found parked in the vicinity as evidence he had driven to the spot.

But relatives said they suspected it was a case of murder in view of bruises discovered on the victim's face and the fact that the bullet took a downward course. The body was found Sunday. McCartney was unmarried.
